what to expect:

This three-phased approach to coaching will challenge you to become everything that you have dreamed and more.

phase one:

During phase one, you will complete The 14 Day Experiment™, a dynamic strategy that will help you jump start change and generate break-through strategies for success. This is the “boot camp” phases of the program and will separate those who are serious about changing their lives from those who are content just thinking about it.

phase two:

During the second phase, you will develop and affirm your strategic vision. You will begin to translate your vision into action by committing to action steps that keep you focused and propel you from where you are to where you want to be.

Phase three:

During the third phase, you are living your vision with T.R.U.T.H. and unstoppable momentum, with a strong support system and accountability partnership. Your success is contagious and shines so bright, you light up a pathway for others to break-through.
